Dear WCCH Family,

Count your blessings! The children and staff added "blessings" to a white board in the conference room. While reading the statements, my eyes caught, "Adults I can trust." One of our WCCH children is blessed because they have adults they can trust! This changes everything!

Trust is a fundamental need for each child - not to be trusted, but to be able to trust others. Neglect and abuse robs children of the ability to trust adults.

Every time our family at WCCH provides a meal, helps with homework, drives the children to church and school, and reads the Bible with them... We develop trust in their hearts.

Your generosity builds trust in children. Your partnership is essential. Thank you!
